3. The basic thrust of the proposed EO is that the new Board will have about the same responsibilities as the PFIAB has exercised, plus a watchdog role with respect to Community compliance with directives governing its activities.

4. Individual employees at any level will be able to report alleged improprieties to the Board for investigation, and you and other agency heads are authorized to request advice from the Board if you are concerned about the propriety of any activity.

5. Some of the comments relate to matters which are not within your province but which need to be looked into, e.g., can a military officer be relieved of any control from his department if assigned to the Board staff.
